McGuinty regrets eHealth 'mistake'

CONTROVERSY Premier Dalton McGuinty says hiring Sarah Kramer to run eHealth Ontario was a "mistake" that he deeply regrets.

McGuinty yesterday distanced himself from both Kramer and her mentor Dr. Alan Hudson, head of Ontario's drive to reduce health-care wait times, and former eHealth chair.

"In hindsight it is obvious that we made a mistake," McGuinty told reporters at Northern Secondary School.

The premier, who charged Hudson with fixing the province's woeful electronic health records strategy, said his wait-times guru convinced him Kramer was the best candidate.

McGuinty emphasized he did not hear any objections to her hiring.

"Honestly, Dr. Hudson was a strong influence in all of this. I relied heavily on him," the premier said.

His comments followed a published report that the premier intervened in Kramer's appointment as CEO over the objection of senior civil servants.

Tories announce nearly $1M for pandemic planning

TIM WIECLAWSKI
tim.wieclawski@metronews.ca

The federal government is targeting small and medium businesses with a nearly $1-million program for H1N1 flu virus pandemic planning.

Health Minister Leona Aglukkaq announced in Ottawa yesterday the federal government would provide $926,000 in funding to help small and medium businesses develop a plan in the event of labour shortages due to influenza A (H1N1), also known as swine flu, during this flu season.

"While many large companies have begun to address business continuity is-suings during a pandemic, most small and medium businesses will be able to get up close and personal with animals like tigers, an African lion, a jaguar and a wolf when the zoo comes to the fair at Lansdowne Park. Story, page 3.

The program will be developed by the International Centre for Infectious Disease, a Winnipeg-based not-for-profit organization that focuses on applying new technologies to fight infections worldwide.

Canada's chief public health officer, Dr. David Butler-Jones, said pandemic planning is something small businesses should be able to develop fairly easily, but every business is a little different.

One of the important things to overcome is the stubborn North American work ethic of sick people dragging themselves to work.

"Looking at alternative ways to work, if they are well enough to work, is an important part of the plan," he said.

Aglukkaq also chastised opposition health critics for playing politics with H1N1 and calling a special summer session of the House of Commons health committee yesterday afternoon.

"It's disappointing that some of these questions couldn't have been raised through our weekly briefings with opposition critics," she said.

"We have gone above and beyond what is normally done," she said, adding that she has held 22 technical briefings for opposition MPs so far.

Winnipeg North New Democrat MP Judy Wasylycia-Leis said the briefings are "no substitute" for a real exchange of ideas with parliamentarians.

Aglukkaq said the impact of the virus is decreasing, with fewer people visiting doctors and a decrease in the number of outbreaks reported.

There have been 64 H1N1-linked deaths in Canada.

Opa! Get your Greek on

MJ DESCHAMPS
for Metro Ottawa

Get ready for cries of "Opa!" and delicious, hard-to-pronounce food — Ottawa's annual Greek Festival is here.

Now in its 36th year, GreekFest — which starts this afternoon and runs through Aug. 23 — is expected to draw crowds of 80,000 to its Hog's Back Park site for traditional cuisine, dance demonstrations, music, and its famous nightly Zorba show.

"Our motto is to 'Live a day the Greek way,'" said GreekFest general manager Erin Giakoumelos.

"The festival's sights, tastes and sounds are a great way to experience Greek culture and cuisine."

Giakoumelos said that while the annual festival is an opportunity for the Hellenic community in Ottawa to get together, GreekFest is open to everyone, regardless of their nationality or culture.

Along with entertainment and arrays of Greek dishes, the festival is also offering cooking demonstrations, Greek dance lessons, Greek seminars and wine tasting and a variety of children's activities. Theme days will also be a part of the 11-day festival, with an Ottawa Food Bank fundraiser, a multicultural night, and the "Night in Athens" evening.

Free shuttle services are being offered from St. Pius X School.

"... Live a day the Greek way."

Rights tribunal to hear complaint on Carleton ban

POSTER The Ontario Human Rights Tribunal will hear a complaint from a student group against the Carleton University administration next month in relation to a poster banned from the campus earlier this year.

Students Against Israeli Apartheid — Carleton, made the complaint after posters for Israeli Apartheid Week were removed from campus in February.

The poster shows a jet with an Israel label firing a rocket at a child holding a teddy bear.

In a statement, Carleton University said the tribunal would allow them "to respond point by point to these false claims once and for all."

Jumpers show off at Nepean

Equestrians in public's radar after Beijing Olympic silver medal

TIM WIECLAWSKI
tim.wieclawski@metronews.ca

Ian Millar only gets to compete in his own backyard once a year, so Canada's elder statesman of show jumping rarely misses the National Capital Show Jumping Tournament.

Even though the Perth resident was honorary chair of a new committee overseeing the event, he skipped the competition last year.

He was busy helping Team Canada win an Olympic silver medal in show jumping in China.

The experience, he said, has really raised the profile of show jumping, especially in Ottawa, which is already one of Canada's horse riding hotbeds.

"There are a lot more people aware of our sport and the riders involved. That I sure notice," said Millar, who was riding in his ninth Olympics. "You could win every grand prix there is in Canada and that wouldn't happen. It took the Olympics to make that happen."

The tournament, which started yesterday and runs through Aug. 23, will see some of the best show jumpers from Canada and the world at Nepean National Equestrian Park.

Ottawa's Victoria Seale, 15, and Boomer the horse clear a jump during the 1.3-metre junior amateur competition of the National Capital Open Show Jumping Tournament that started yesterday at the Nepean Equestrian Park.

As Millar explains it, this weekend is kind of a national competition, before some of the top international riders come to town for the $75,000 Brookstreet Grand Prix.

Two of Millar's teammates from that Olympic medal-winning team, Jill Henselwood of Oxford Mills and Mac Cone, will also be riding in the tournament.

While a difficult economy may have discouraged some riders from travelling long distances, event co-ordinator Ainsley Hayes said the tournament has around 25 per cent more entries than its inaugural year.

"Everyone who came last year had a fantastic time," she said.

Some of the proceeds from the event will benefit the United Way Ottawa and JustWorld International, which will also see proceeds from the Horseless Horse Show — a fun event where people run through the course with no horse — tomorrow evening.

Pictures aid patients in taking meds

HEALTH A CHEO doctor has led an initiative to develop a series of pictograms that help explain how medications should be taken.

The Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario and the International Pharmaceutical Federation are offering their pictogram software — which graphically conveys to patients how medicine should be taken — for hospitals and pharmacies across North America and Europe to download free of charge.

According to the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, about 26 per cent of the world's adult population is illiterate.

"We need to make it safer and easier for people all over the world, including right here in Canada, to take medicine," said CHEO's director of pharmacy Dr. Régis Vaillancourt.

"Language, education, age and even culture may impact how people interpret medical instructions. With something this critical, it is important to help reduce the possibility of mistakes," said Vaillancourt.

SuperEX drops admission by $2, bumps up variety

FUN In a bid to give fairgoers better value during tough times, Ottawa's SuperEX is lowering its prices and upping its variety of entertainment when the event kicks off Aug. 20.

Prices will be $2 lower, "but people are going to get a more exciting experience," said exhibition manager Wayne Roy.

Organizers yesterday announced the lineup of

Theme days

- While there will be free admission until 5 p.m. on opening day, other special events include two-for-one admission on Aug. 21 and 28; Organ

Donor Awareness Day on Aug. 24; free admission for kids under 12 on Aug. 25; free seniors day on Aug. 26 and the apple pie contest on Aug. 27.

shows over SuperEX's 11-day run at Lansdowne Park. In addition to concerts with headliner Bedouin Soundclash and Aaron Pritchett, there will be the Top Cop Academy High-Dive Show, and shows featuring jungle predators, birds of prey and endangered reptiles. Also returning are the midway rides, 4-H competitions, strolling performers, the 26th annual Stars on the Rise talent show and the recreation pavilion with demonstrations, a psychic fair and huge board games.

One of the main attractions at this year's SuperEX is the Xtreme Wild show, which features a 500-pound Bengal tiger, an African lion, a jaguar, wolves and their natural prey, including reindeer, camels and zebras from the Bowmanville Zoo. "We're going to tell the story of predators and prey," said zoo director Michael Hackenberger.

But the faint of heart don't have to worry. "We're not going to take it all the way," he said. "We're not going to show the consequences."

Tories fickle over who gets help abroad?

MP cites 'Orwellian jury' that decides which jailed or stranded Canadian gets aid

Advocates and lawyers for Canadian citizens who get into tight situations abroad are accusing the Conservative government of fickleness.

Tory ministers appear to choose, apparently at random, which Canadians get access to help and which ones must battle to clear their names, the critics say.

In contrast to the few citizens abroad who do get Ottawa's ear, dozens of pleas go unanswered.

"What I find most disturbing is that Canadians are possibly being judged in absentia by an Orwellian jury comprised of the Canadian cabinet," said Liberal MP Dan McTeague.

Ottawa lawyer Yavar Hameed suggests Ottawa has an everpresent fear of being cast as a security

Three cases, three reactions threat to the United States.

The most troubling government decisions inevitably involve security questions, whether of Canadian travel documents, borders or the backgrounds of some Canadian citizens, Hameed said.

"There is this kind of interpretation that we can't do something that's going to be perceived as soft on the war on terror," he said.

He added: "I think it's very much a part of the domestic decision making process that this current government is responsible for."

Church voices 'mortification' over scandal

Italy's Catholic church feels "unease" and "mortification" at revelations surrounding Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi, the newspaper of the Italian Bishops' Conference wrote yesterday. The scandal over his private life erupted in May, when his wife announced she wanted a divorce, accusing him of "frequenting minors." Attention focused first on Berlusconi's relationship with 18-year-old model Noemi Letizia, left, to whom he gave a $8,500 US necklace, before other women claimed to have been paid to attend his extravagant parties. One of them, Patrizia D'Addario, claimed she slept with Berlusconi. REUTERS

Speaker rejects rape claims

More than 200 Iranian politicians want ties with West reviewed

The speaker of Iran's parliament yesterday rejected as "baseless" an opposition leader's accusation that moderates had been raped in jail following their detention in unrest linked to June's disputed presidential poll.

"Based on parliament's investigations, detainees have not been raped or sexually abused in Iran's Kahrizak and Evin prisons," Iran state television quoted Ali Larijani as saying.

Defeated moderate candidate Mehdi Karubi said some protesters, both men and women, had been raped in prison.

IranCrisis

Many of the post-election detainees were held in south Tehran's Kahrizak prison, built to house people breaching vice laws. At least three people died in custody there.

The abuse allegations have divided hardline politicians, many of whom backed President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad's re-election.

A committee set up by losing candidates Karubi and Mir Hossein Mousavi to pursue the issue submitted a list of 69 people killed in protests to parliament on Monday. The list contradicted the official figure of 26 deaths.

Rights group Amnesty International urged Iran to allow international observers to monitor the trials of more than 100 people accused of involvement in the protests that followed the election.

Washington, its European allies and leading Iranian reformers have rejected the mass trials as a "show."

State radio said 215 of Iran's 290 lawmakers urged Ahmadinejad to reconsider ties with the United States, France and Britain for their "interference" in Iran's state matters.

A hardline lawmaker said Ahmadinejad was to be blamed for any possible mistreatment in prisons, adding "If we suppress people we will be destroying the system with our own hands."

Another hardline lawmaker criticized harsh methods used by security forces over the unrest. Some 4,000 people were arrested and at least 200 people remain in jail, including activists, senior moderate politicians, lawyers and journalists. REUTERS

Newspaper pulls reporters from Chechnya after killings

MURDERS Russia's opposition Novaya Gazeta newspaper said yesterday it would pull its journalists out of Chechnya after a human rights activist and her husband were killed as part of a string of killings there.

In October 2006, the paper's investigative reporter Anna Politkovskaya, known for her criticism of pro-Moscow Chechen leader Ramzan Kadyrov and the Kremlin, was shot dead near her apartment in Moscow.

In the latest killings in the troubled Muslim republic, Zarema Sadulayeva, the kidnapped head of a children's charity, and her husband were found murdered in the trunk of a car in Chechnya on Tuesday.

The attack came a month after leading Chechen rights activist Natalia Estemirova was kidnapped. REUTERS

Right to the top?

• Rights group Memorial claims Chechen leader Ramzan Kadyrov is behind much of the violence in Chechnya and has accused him of ordering the July 15 killing of activist Natalia Estemirova.

and murdered by unknown assailants, triggering international outrage.

"Do these massacres mean that a co-ordinated campaign to destroy human rights advocates has been launched in Chechnya?" Novaya Gazeta said in a statement posted on its website.

While Politkovskaya's murder remains unsolved, the United States and European Union have pressed the Kremlin to ensure the prosecution of her killers. REUTERS

HELMAND Some 400 U.S. Marines and 100 Afghan army soldiers staged a helicopter assault yesterday in the mountains of Helmand province in Afghanistan, part of an effort to secure Taliban-held areas before Aug. 20 elections.

Masked gunmen killed seven Pakistani preachers at a mosque in Somalia's Puntland region yesterday, residents and local officials said.

UN says chief did not congratulate Ahmadinejad

CONTROVERSY The United Nations said yesterday that Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon did not congratulate Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad on his contested re-election, reversing a previous statement.

Asked Tuesday if Ban had sent a congratulatory letter to Ahmadinejad, UN spokeswoman Marie Okabe said "yes." But when reporters asked her for details yesterday, she said it could not be at all construed as congratulating Ahmadinejad.

"It is not accurate to refer to this as a congratulatory letter," she said, adding the UN would not release the contents of the letter.

Okabe said Ban's letter "takes advantage of the occasion of the inauguration to express the hope that Iran and the United Nations will continue to co-operate closely in addressing regional and global issues."

Saluting gay boyfriends

Relating

Sofi Papamarko

metronews.ca/papamarko

have a lot of gay male friends. I'm not exactly sure how I became such a fruit fly, but it probably has to do with the fact that I enjoy being around brilliant, interesting, quirky and hilarious people. And there happen to be an inordinate number of gay men who fit the bill.

When a gay male in your life transcends the confines of ordinary friendship, they become something known as The Gay Boyfriend.

I am lucky enough to have three.

I met Ben in university.

He taught me about wine and men and crème brûlée and The Pet Shop Boys. Ben has the body of a Russian gymnast, but the eyes and smile of a mischievous child on Christmas morning.

He recently moved to Montreal, for work and for love. My life will be decidedly less colourful without him around.

I met Tony during grad school. He's smart, fun and absurdly well read. We share a fascination with French culture and a top-secret love of Evita. He is my karaoke life partner (nobody does Summer Nights like we do Summer Nights). With his artfully mussed hair and routine self-deprecation, Tony reminds me of an anime hero who hasn't yet realized his superpower.

Last but not least is Phil, my work spouse. He makes me laugh until I cry on a regular basis and transforms the daily grind into a delight. He has a French bulldog named Francine. He sings soaring solos in a gospel choir. He has a laugh unlike any you have ever heard. He is one of the best dudes I know.

There are several things that Gay Boyfriends offer that The Boyfriend and/or The Straight Male Platonic Friend often cannot:

1. They find sports boring and would never force you to watch a game.

2. They are more emotional and intuitive than most straight men, so they do not judge you for your occasional "girl moments."

3. They revere Madonna as a demigod (The Gay Boyfriend downloaded her new single Celebration eons before you did. For the record.)

4. They find levity and hope in the most depressing of scenarios.

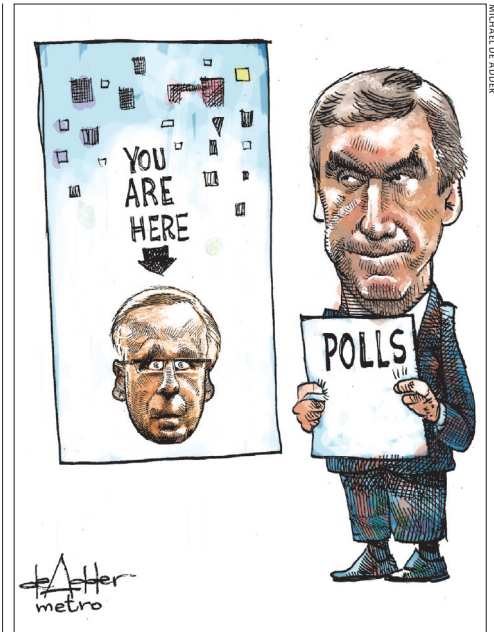

5. When they pour you a drink, there is no ulterior motive.

6. They have neat shoes. Gay Boyfriends everywhere, consider this your valentine. Bless your brave, brash, jovial, generous, vibrant, filthy, fierce and utterly fabulous hearts.

You are adored.
Cue Celebration.

Sofi Papamarko is a 20-something writer based in Toronto. Her heroes include Desmond Morris and Nancy Sinatra.

Russia's vodka love-hate relationship continues

Russian President Dmitry Medvedev called time on the country's vodka tipplers yesterday, saying alcoholism had become a "national disaster."

Medvedev said measures aimed at reducing binge drinking had not reduced alcoholism in Russia, where downing vast amounts of vodka at one sitting is an integral part of national culture.

"If I speak openly, I think that one cannot speak of any change, nothing has changed," Medvedev told a meeting of senior officials in the Black Sea resort of Sochi, according to a copy of his remarks supplied by the Kremlin.

"Alcoholism in our country is a national disaster."

Medvedev said he was shocked by official data showing the average Russian drank 18 litres (38 pints) of pure alcohol each year.

"When you convert that into vodka bottles, it is simply mind-boggling," Medvedev said.

Doctors believe alcohol-related diseases cause around half of all deaths of Russians between the ages of 15 and 54, a key factor in dire demographic forecasts used in long-term economic growth models.

Just 40 per cent of this year's Russian school graduates are likely to live to the pension age of 55-60, according to World Health Organization figures quoted by Health Minister Tatyana Golikova.

Russia's rulers have had a love-hate relationship with vodka for decades: Happy with the vast revenues that vodka sales bring, but concerned by the social and health problems it leaves behind.

Lashing out at Sudanese 'fashion police'

GlobalView

Mona Eltahawy

metronews.ca/globalview

What would you do if you were out with friends at a coffee shop, the police arrived and arrested you all for being "indecently dressed" — you're wearing trousers — and decided your punishment was a public flogging: 40 lashes each?

Sudanese journalist Lubna Hussein went head-to-head with her country's outrageous "dress code" law in style. She insisted on a trial (10 of the women arrested with her accepted a fine and flogging), showed up in the Khartoum court wearing the very same trousers that got her arrested in the first place and — the cherry on the cake — she sent out 500 invitations to journalists and activists to come and watch.

Dozens of women, many in trousers, and several men turned out to support Hussein and were promptly tear-gassed and beaten by police. Any doubt on how far Hussein has upended the system in Sudan was laid to rest when the Sudanese regime barred her from travelling to Lebanon earlier this week to give a television interview on her trial.

Hussein's trial resumes Sept. 7.

For years the Sudanese regime had played a cheap game of flaunting its "Islamic principles" over the bodies of women. It has flogged thousands of both Muslim women and non-Muslim southern Sudanese women for supposedly violating Islamic principles.

Many silently endured the misogyny and injustice; they were poor, socially vulnerable or ashamed. But Hussein has brilliantly used her position and clout to fight back. She is a journalist who knows all about shaping the narrative. She was also a press officer for the United Nations, a position that could have earned her immunity from charges and a flogging, but she chose to resign and fight instead.

And most importantly she is a Muslim woman who knows that a flogging for wearing trousers is sheer and utter nonsense ...

Microsoft, Nokia join forces

Microsoft Corp. and Nokia announced an alliance yesterday to bring business software to smartphones to counter the dominance of Research In Motion Ltd.'s BlackBerry.

The alliance between the world's largest software company and cellphone maker means the latest versions of Microsoft's Office applications, including

The companies, at one time fierce rivals in the mobile business, expect to offer Nokia phones running Office sometime next year.

Canadians hoping for a canoe-kayak breakthrough

MATTHEW WUEST

With Lake Banook as its backdrop, Canada's sprint canoe-kayak team is hoping for a historic weekend.

Canada, represented by its largest team yet at the world championships starting today in Dartmouth, N.S., is gunning for a top-three finish in the overall team point standings and is quietly hoping to knock off either Hungary or Germany, traditionally the powerhouse nations at this event.

nities to take that step."

Canada's record 42 athletes are among the 1,000 participants from more than 70 countries on Lake Banook this weekend. It will mark the first time Canada has an athlete entered in every event. Traditionally, financial concerns and a focus on the Olympics mean smaller teams are sent to worlds.

While Hungary and Germany are usually the top two nations, Canada battles it out with countries such as Poland, Russia and Spain for the final spot on the podium.

At the worlds, Canada often finds itself in the fifth- and sixth-place range, while it placed third at the Athens Olympics in 2004 and fourth at the Beijing Games last summer.

"Our team is strong throughout," said Halifax canoeist Richard Dalton. "We're going to have chances to be in the top five or on the podium in a lot of different events."

"Our team is extremely strong and we're well able to go out and compete with those big countries."

"Have I been trying to get better at that? Yeah, my entire life," said Woods, who won his 70th PGA Tour title at the WGC-Bridgestone Invitational Sunday.

Creative cooking

EMMA YARDLEY
for Metro Canada

A fear of colour can sometimes make kitchens seem sterile and white washed rather than centres of culinary creativity. But before you go out and buy a hot pink gas range, think about other ways injecting colour into your kitchen.

"A pop of colour is always fun but I wouldn't have all my appliances in colour," says Karen Kirk, the senior editor of Homes and Gardens at Canadian Living Magazine. "You don't want them to end up in the dump after six months because they're no longer your favorite colour!"

Instead, she suggests experimenting with colour by painting the walls a fun shade or adding a bold set of china and linens to your collection. Another idea is to throw a few fun, candy-coloured cooking gadgets and gizmos into the mix. Little hits of colour complement existing neutral toned appliances and won't make your kitchen look like a packet of Skittles.

Naturalizing your urban area

HomeScape

Sylvia Putz

metronews.ca/homescape

When it rains, it pours. That's how it's been this summer in my part of the country. There's so much of it, it comes sheeting off my roof, gurgling down the eavestroughs, and splish-splashing into my water barrel, which fills quickly and then overflows out onto the walk. And water, if left unsupervised, can cause a lot of damage.

Erosion of slopes, ruts, driveway pavers loosened and undermined. Gravel washed away. And water seeping into the basement doesn't help things either. That doesn't even take into consideration the larger environmental damage caused by intensive bursts of dirty urban runoff. It courses down paved streets and concrete sidewalks, picking up oil, litter and dog waste along the way, coalescing quickly into a torrent, and ultimately overwhelming sewers and urban water treatment capacities.

And when the urban sewage and storm water system is inundated with more water than it can handle, storm water can mix with sewage underneath the older parts of the city, and the mess can and often does end up in lakes, river and oceans.

So, it doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure out that it really does make sense to reduce the amount of water that flows into city sewers.

But how might the average urban dweller do this? For one, by naturalizing the urban space. That way, water that falls can actually be absorbed by the earth in your little space, rather than rushing down various impermeable urban surfaces, such as concrete and pavement.

When you naturalize, you are trying to recreate the natural system that softens the effects of intense rainfall. This means you want to mimic a forest where the rain filters through the canopy created by tall trees, falling much more gently and gradually onto the bushes and younger trees below. Then, it is absorbed slowly into the soil through the network of low-growing vegetation.

Of course, you live in an urban environment, not a forest, but here are some ways to mimic it.

- MINIMIZE IMPERMEABLE SURFACING: Use eco-friendly pavers or wooden or recycled material decking that allows water to drain through instead of running off. Or, rather than paving over the whole driveway, consider the old-fashioned two-track method with vegetation in the middle. Or make sidewalks narrower if you are redoing them.

- PLANTING: When you plant, use a tri-level canopy approach, if possible, to soften rainfall and allow gradual absorption of water.

- SOIL: If you've got soil with a high clay content, augment it with sand and organic material. Well-balanced soils absorb water much more readily than clay-rich soils, which drain water very slowly.

- EAVES: Disconnect your eavestrough to reduce water going into city sewers as runoff.

- LAST BUT NOT LEAST, USE LESS WATER EVERY DAY

discovered cocktails during my university days and worked my way through a series of mixed drink phases.

I started with martinis (too boozy), moved on to brown cows (too rich), dabbled in Caesars (still do once in a while), but lingered the longest with the good old gin and tonic.

It's been years since I had a proper G & T so it was a kick to rediscover the classic warm weather tiple this summer during a tasting of a variety of the clear juniper berry-based spirits.

Unlike vodka, the personality of each gin is defined by how it combines juniper with its own unique mix of botanicals. One of the most original of the group I tried was Hendrick's Gin ($41.95 - $41.99) from Scotland.

Not only does its bottle set it apart from the pack (it looks like it would have held medicine a few centuries ago); its combination of ingredients is enhanced by the infusion of mashed cucumber and the oil pressed from Bulgarian rose pedals.

Tasty enough to drink over ice without the tonic, the addition of the bitter, bubbly water releases some major aromatics that had me pining for a full glass and a hot, lazy afternoon.

Prices reflect the range across the country. Some products may not be available in all provinces.

Canadian Living recipe of the month

Bottoms up for plum cake

But before dessert, try a whole new twist on burgers

Pickerel Burger with Warm Onions

MAKES 4 SERVINGS

PREP TIME: 22 MINUTES

COOK TIME: 21 MINUTES

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 lb (500 g) boneless skinless pickerel fillets
- 1/4 cup (50 ml) all-purpose flour
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 green onion, chopped
- 2 tsp (10 ml) each chopped capers and lemon juice
- 1/4 tsp (1 ml) each salt and pepper
- 3 tbsp (45 ml) cornmeal
- 2 tbsp (25 ml) vegetable oil

• 4 hamburger buns
Warm onions:

Food In brief

PERFECT PLUMS

There are many varieties of plums, some sweet and some acidic. Prune plums and damson plums – both best suited for cooking – star in this delicious recipe.

- Oval purple prune plums have deep flavour. Damson plums are similar looking but much smaller than the purple. Damson plums are extremely tart and are used mostly in cooking and preserves.

- To ripen, keep plums at room temperature, out of direct sun, until skin yields slightly to gentle pressure.

- Ripe plums should be stored in single layer in refrigerator for up to 5 days. Rinse off fruit just before using.

- As a guide, 3 to 6 prune plums equal 1 lb (500 g). A 3 L basket contains about 5 lb (2.2 kg).

CANADIANLIVING.COM

- 1 tbsp (15 ml) each vegetable oil and mustard seeds
- 1 sweet onion, sliced
- 1/4 cup (50 ml) cider vinegar
- 1 tsp (5 ml) packed brown sugar

METHOD:

Bake pickerel on foil-lined baking sheet in 350°F (180°C) oven until fish flakes easily when tested, about 15 minutes. Pat dry and let cool.

In bowl, flake fish with fork; mix in flour, egg, onion, capers, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Shape into 4 patties; refrigerate for 10 minutes. Coat patties in cornmeal.

Warm onions: Meanwhile, in skillet, heat oil over medium heat; cook mustard seeds and onion until softened, 3 minutes. Add vinegar and sugar; cook until evaporated, 5 minutes.

In clean skillet, heat oil over medium heat; fry burgers, turning once, until golden, about 6 minutes. Serve on buns along with onions.

Plum Upside-Down Cake

Sliced plums in a butter-scotch sauce top this tender cake. Spelt flour, an ancient cereal grain, gives it a nutty hint.

MAKES 9 SERVINGS

Plum Upside-Down Cake

INGREDIENTS:

- 12 oz (375 g) large firm ripe prune or purple plums (3 to 6 plums)
- 1/2 cup (125 ml) packed brown sugar
- 3 tbsp (45 ml) butter, melted
- Cake:
- 2/3 cup (150 ml) butter, softened
- 1 cup (250 ml) packed brown sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1 tsp (5 ml) grated orange rind
- 1 tsp (5 ml) vanilla
- 1 1/4 cups (300 ml) all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup (125 ml) spelt flour
- 2 tsp (10 ml) baking powder
- 1/4 tsp (1 ml) cinnamon
- Pinch each nutmeg and salt
- 2/3 cup (150 ml) milk

METHOD:

Halve and pit plums. Cut each into 6 wedges; set aside. In bowl, whisk sugar with butter until combined. Spread in greased 8-inch (2 L) square metal cake pan; decoratively cover with plums.

Cake: In large bowl, beat butter with sugar until fluffy. Beat in eggs, 1 at a time. Beat in orange rind and vanilla.

In separate bowl, whisk together all-purpose and spelt flours, baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Stir into butter mixture alternately with milk, making 3 additions of dry ingredients and 2 of milk. Spoon over plums, smoothing top.

Bake in 350°F (180°C) oven until golden and cake tester inserted in centre comes out clean, about 55 minutes. Let cool in pan on rack for 10 minutes.

Run knife around edges of cake; invert onto plate. Scrape any remaining syrupy base over plums. Serve warm or at room temperature.

Beer Can Chicken started as a fad on the barbecue circuit, but it is shaping up to become a classic. You grill the bird upright by ramming a can of beer into the cavity. The booze bubbles and steams to turn the meat juicy, while the skin, coated with spices, gets crispy. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICES

American-Style Double Cheeseburgers

INGREDIENTS:

Sauce:

- 3/4 cup (180 ml) mayonnaise
 - 1/4 cup (60 ml) finely chopped onion
 - 1 Tbsp (15 ml) store-bought French salad dressing (orange coloured)
 - 1 Tbsp (15 ml) sweet relish
 - 1 Tbsp (15 ml) finely chopped dill pickle
 - 1 tsp (5 ml) brown sugar
 - 1 tsp (5 ml) ketchup
 - 1 tsp (5 ml) white vinegar
 - Salt and pepper
- #### Cheeseburgers:
- 4 hamburger buns
 - 1 1/2 lb (675 g) lean ground beef
 - 4 slices orange processed cheese
 - Sliced sandwich pickles

RICARDO

These American-Style Double Cheeseburgers are from Ricardo: Meals for Every Occasion.

- Chopped iceberg lettuce

METHOD:

Sauce:

In a bowl, combine all the ingredients. Season with salt and pepper. Refrigerate.

Cheeseburgers:

Preheat the barbecue, setting the burners to high. Using a bread knife, slice the top halves of the hamburger buns in half. Set aside.

Shape the meat into 8 large but very thin patties. Tip: Place the patties between sheets of plastic wrap and flatten by sliding your hand over the top layer.

Grill the patties until well-done, about 3 minutes per side. Season with salt and pepper. Place the cheese slices on 4 of the patties for the last minute of cooking. Toast the buns.

Assembly:

Spread sauce on the bun bottoms. Lay 1 plain patty on each bun bottom. Garnish with pickle slices. Cover with the bun middles. Spread with sauce and garnish with lettuce. Top with the remaining patties and the bun tops.

SUZY SAYS

Poor career and personal choices landed Suzy Welch, the author of 10-10-10, in a situation where, at 41, the divorced mother of four found herself on the firing line when her boss at the Harvard Business Review told her "You. Will. Never. Work. Again." During a disastrous business trip, Welch developed a decision-making tool she calls "10-10-10." "It's deceptively simple," she says. "Simply dreaming about the future can lead you into a black hole." Her formula is this: For any decision, ask yourself what the outcome of your choice would be in the next 10 minutes, the next 10 months and the next 10 years. The first two are usually easy; the last is the hardest, but you have to work with the info you have at hand.

Ojon Rub-Out Dry Cleansing Powder ($27).

DRY CLEANING

"Dry shampoo is a great way to prolong a blow-dry," says Beni Sicilia, artistic director at The Blowdry Lounge in Toronto, "but it won't work miracles. You can't go to hot yoga and then use dry shampoo and expect it to work." Sicilia suggests applying it a day after your blowout, or when the hair starts to stick together at the roots. "Women tend to overuse it, and then it can look powdery," he says. "You really only need a touch of it at the roots."

More family drama

Emily VanCamp braces herself for another round with the Walkers

By NOREEN FLANAGAN
Executive Editor

Even Emily VanCamp has trouble keeping up with the various dramas unfolding in the famously flawed Walker family on the popular ABC drama Brothers and Sisters. The 23-year-old actress from Port Perry, Ont., plays Rebecca, a young woman who was initially thought to be the love child of William Walker and his secret mistress. Shortly after DNA disproved that, she fell in love with Justin — a man she thought was her half-brother. By the close of the third season, the two were engaged. Phew!

"Rebecca has a history of acting out and being very extreme," says VanCamp. "By the end of last season, she had calmed down a bit, but we'll see a shift. There's a big twist to the story, but I'm not allowed to say what it is!" Although she has lived and breathed her character for the past few years, Van-

Camp says that she's nothing like Rebecca. "You can't let your characters bleed into your own life," she says laughing. "That said, I think that the one character closest to me was Amy on Everwood. I was very connected to her emotionally."

Phish ready to deliver new album

MUSIC Reunited jam band Phish will release Joy, its eleventh studio album and first in five years, on Sept. 8, the band has announced on its website.

On Joy, recorded earlier this year at Chung King Studios in New York, the group joins forces with producer Steve Lillywhite for 10 new songs, many of which were debuted live during the band's return to the stage this spring and summer.

Fans who had the opportunity to catch Phish during their first proper come-back tour got a taste of nine new tunes, when they showcased swinging blues riffs on Kill Devil Hills, interplays between guitarist Trey Anastasio and pianist Page McConnell during Ocelot and the long, winding, jam-friendly Light. Only I've Been Around has yet to make its live debut.

In addition to a CD, Phish is selling a limited-edition Joy Box, a deluxe package available exclusively on the band's own website, Phish Dry Goods.

VANCOUVER'S DAN MANGAN

has quietly been building a name for himself since releasing his debut in 2007, but expect the chatter to increase in volume with this new release. If you like The Weakerthans or early Hawksley Workman you'll love this record. It's all well crafted singer-songwriter stuff with impressive range. Mangan is able to move from the incredibly infectious sing-a-long Robots to the sensitive John K. Samson-ish The Indie Queens are Waiting with ease. If anything, he sounds a little too much like some of his influences, but with such strong material no one will care.

pen to be brothers (from Utica, N.Y., no less). The girls, of course, are both gorgeous. Not that this is a formula band. We're quite prepared to accept the explanation that they all met up in a bar one night and ... well. With the help of Matchbox 20 producer Matt Serletic, they've put out a rather pleasing country/pop album that at times sounds eerily close to Rumours-era Fleetwood Mac (there were two girls and three guys in that band which, of course, only caused trouble). Although, it tends toward saccharine at times, the music on this debut CD is hard to dislike. It would be nice to hear more songs from the group members. The one track written by them, Time To Let Me Go, happens to be one of the strongest on the CD.

MINDY SMITH

is a Long Island, N.Y., singer-songwriter who a few years back looked ready to become the next "alt-country" queen with her well-received cover of Dolly Parton's Jolene. On her new CD, Mindy dodges the "roots" bullet by moving her music into — excuse the terminology — the upscale environs of "adult-alternative." To Canadians, that means a sound uncannily like our own Kathleen Edwards, which is a very good thing indeed. Ironically, it was Edwards who, not too many years ago, was unfairly being touted as the next alt-country queen, a Canadian version of Lucinda Williams. It's nice that the Americans have finally come up with someone who can be compared with Kathleen Edwards. But great songwriting is what it is, defying categorization and deserving an audience.

it's not surprising that he's released an entire album of weird, quirky sounds with nary a vocal melody around. Playing under the name Black Mold, VanGaal delivers a strong set of Nintendo-like bleeps, sweeping keyboards and spacey electro sounds. Like his previous instrumental work, this is nearly as catchy and melodic as his more straightforward tunes.

when the corporate machine decides to produce an "edgy" album. Real bad. Surely there are other messages we could be delivering to our children other than how much girls enjoy being rolled in crap ("treat 'em like dirt, they'll stick forever to the bottom of your shoe"). The fact that Gossip Girls star Leighton Meester is involved in the first single, Good Girls Go Bad, makes it all the more repulsive. The fact that some of the music is actually listenable makes it all the more dangerous. Just what is American Idol judge Kara DioGuardi doing writing for these guys? Buy this, attach it to the bottom of your shoe and give it all the respect it deserves.

Kudrow gets serious in Bandslam

But actress says she prefers to work — and live — on the flakier side

HEIDI PATALANO
Metro World News

Ask Friends veteran Lisa Kudrow how she prepared for her role in Bandslam, and the subject of Rock Band — the omnipresent and much-loved video game — immediately comes up.

"Rock Band? Oh honey, I got it. We played it. It's done. It's over," she says without hesitation.

"Did I just say 'Oh honey'? Where am I from?" That's the brand of Kudrow humour that has carried the veteran actress through dozens of supporting roles. Despite what you might think, she'd much rather play second fiddle than take centre stage.

"The hardest times I've had are when I've had to be a romantic figure," she says, noting that primary characters often have the burden of achieving universal likeability while supporting characters can get away with being a bit weird.

"For me, it's such a challenge to make someone who is potentially really unlikable, likeable. I have a lot of fun with that."

For her turn in Bandslam, Kudrow plays the protective mom to a teenager making his way at a new school — a sobering contrast to some of actress' ditzier characters. Kudrow credits her spacier characters for her success and that makes sense, since her roles as Ursula in Mad About You and as Phoebe in Friends are what made her a star — but being flaky also helped her cope with success.

"I used to be very, very serious about things and it really made me let go of a lot of things, to be honest with you. It helps because you know, you're not a threat when you're stupid," she says. "You know how people say that smart women aren't that likeable? I honestly do think it's true."

What about Oprah, we ask? "You make a good point," the star admits. "I guess it's just me. I have trouble with people."

Downtown Girls, Idiots on new MTV lineup

TELEVISION MTV has greenlighted a slate of scripted and reality series and has renewed three freshman shows. The network said it has ordered the new series Downtown Girls, Megadrive, the Ashton Kutcher-produced American Idiots, the scripted comedy Hard Times and an untitled comedy/variety project starring Rob Hoffman.

On the renewal front, the freshmen She Really Going Out With Him? — inspired by the site Hot Chicks With Douchebags — and Silent Library, based on a Japanese game show, have each been picked up for 20 episodes. Teen Cribbs, an offshoot of the network's venerable series MTV Cribbs, has been picked up for 40 episodes.

Hard Times, which has a 12-episode order, marks the first single-camera comedy series for MTV and the first scripted series order under the current revamping of the MTV brand. "We're really serious about giving our viewers new and diversified MTV," president of programming Tony DiSanto said, describing Hard Times as "Superbad for MTV."

Idol life ain't all glitz, glamour

About halfway through a demanding 52-date North American tour with the other top-10 American Idol finalists, runner-up Adam Lambert exudes a kind of golly-gee lucky-me attitude.

It isn't easy. Travelling mostly by bus — actually three buses, one for the guys, one for the gals and one for the band — the 27-year-old Californian admits the hit-and-run touring schedule is taking its toll. "It is a bit tiring but it's definitely worth it. Any time I feel a little bit tired when I get onto the stage for my set, I'm immediately charged up by the audiences," Lambert said.

"The audiences have been so positive and passionate about what we do and they definitely make you forget about being tired when you get out there," he added.

Back when Lambert toured back in 2005 with the first North American tour of the Broadway hit Wicked, he got to spend extended periods of time in each city.

This tour, which hits

Hamilton, Ont., on Friday is, well, "different," he said.

"There's 11 of us on one bus and the bus is not that large so it's definitely close quarters. It's a good thing that we all get along as well as we do," Lambert said. "It's a lot of work but ... we're all goofy together, we make each other laugh. The food is not great, I'll be honest with you ... but you live with it."

Down time is virtually non-existent, though Lambert got to spend four hours recently in the tony Washington, D.C. suburb of Georgetown, wearing dark glasses and a trucker hat to retain his anonymity.

But the mascara-wearing, flamboyant, "out" star of Season 8, is looking to a future of touring as a performer and this one, as gruelling as it is, amounts to good practice.

"This is the first time I've gone from city to city, like, daily. So it's definitely learning experience and it's a kind of initiation for all of us for the rest of our careers, I think," Lambert said.

American Idol runner-up Adam Lambert exudes a lucky-me attitude, despite a hit-and-run touring schedule.

In addition to the touring, there's also requests for interviews for the guy who became a unwitting poster boy for gay empowerment, which included a June cover story in Rolling Stone magazine.

"I'm trying to be a singer, not a civil-rights leader," Lambert told the magazine.

But the tour has been a positive experience, he noted.

"I've met a lot of fans both before and after the show, people that you wouldn't suspect would be open to that (being gay). I think it's really cool," Lambert said. "I'm not consciously trying to change people's moral opinions on anything. I really am trying to focus on the music. And if as an indirect result, (people) are more open to different types of lifestyles, then that's awesome, I'm thrilled about that. But that's not my goal."

A handful of members of the infamously virulent and anti-gay Westboro Baptist Church of Topeka, Kansas picketed a show in San Jose, Calif., but it was barely noticed, Lambert said.

Lambert also takes an opportunity to bid adieu to Idol judge Paula Abdul, who recently announced she's not returning for Season 9 — "she will be greatly missed by the audience," said Lambert.

"That's false. That's been a big old rumour that the media kind of perpetuated," Lambert said.

Like Season 8 winner Chris Allen, Lambert is in fact on a project of his own, an as-yet untitled album set for release in November.

Rourke takes The Wrestler to Sarajevo

FILM FEST The Sarajevo Film Festival opened yesterday, 15 years after it was launched as an act of defiance at the end of the 1992-95 Bosnian war and the siege of the city, hosting Hollywood stars such as Mickey Rourke.

The film Tales from the Golden Age by Cristian Mungiu, the first Romanian film director to win the Palme d'Or at Cannes, will open a festival that has become the largest such event in the Balkans and unique for promoting East European film.

Ten films from the region spreading from Austria in the West to Turkey in the East will compete this year for the 25,000 euro ($35,370) Heart of Sarajevo award, some to be shown for the first time outside their countries.

The most famous visitor will be Rourke, who will along with film director Darren Aronofsky and producer Scott Franklin present The Wrestler.

In brief

CASTING Oz alumna Ernie Hudson has joined NBC's drama series Heroes in the recurring role of Captain Lubbock, a Baltimore detective. As usual, the show's producers are keeping story-line details under wraps, but it is understood that Lubbock is on the hunt for one of the other characters on the show.

ADAPTATION In its biggest development deal to date, cable network AMC has acquired the rights to Robert Kirkman's popular comic book The Walking Dead for a potential series. Frank Darabont (The Shawshank Redemption) is on board to write, direct and executive produce the project.

TV Warner Bros. is building a Lego movie. The studio and producer Dan Lin have acquired theatrical rights for a motion picture based on the timeless toy, and hired writers Dan and Kevin Hageman to pen the script.

Spears kids have potty mouths?

SOAP NEEDED Britney Spears' sons shocked onlookers by swearing in public, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The singer took three-year-old Sean Preston and Jayden James, two, to a swag suite — where invited guests are invited to select a variety of goods for free — for the Teen Choice Awards in Los Angeles last weekend when the boys repeatedly shouted “oh s—!”

One onlooker told the New York Daily News newspaper: “We were all surprised by their potty mouths, but it was actually pretty funny.”

Although their bad language attracted the attention of those around them, Spears didn't appear to notice her sons were using offensive words. The onlooker added: “She was too busy picking out freebies to chastise the boys for misbehaving.”

Spears, 27, has previously spoken about her children cursing, claiming they picked up the foul phrases from their father, her ex-husband Kevin Federline.

She said: “The boys are starting to learn words like ‘stupid,’ and Preston says the F-word now sometimes. He doesn't get it from us. He must get it from his daddy. I say it, but not around my kids.”

Brangelina spill sexy secret

TOO MUCH INFORMATION Last week Brad Pitt sent tongues wagging when he told Parade that the secret stone grotto behind the waterfall in his pool is “a great place for sex.” Now, his partner Angelina Jolie says that's not their only secret hideaway, us-magazine.com reports.

“Yeah, well, we got a few special places,” she told Extra on the red carpet at Pitt's Inglourious Basterds premiere in Hollywood. “You keep it going.”

Added Pitt, “It's not true. We have far more comfortable places to go. There is a grotto there. It's an old Hollywood property... just a few minutes that way... and rumour is Jimi Hendrix spent some time there. That's the story. I run with it.”

But Pitt did cop to saying he wouldn't wed Jolie until all couples were allowed to marry legally.

“I did say that,” he said. “So now I'm stuck with it.”

He also said he and Jolie “rarely, rarely” fight.

“We both have been around long enough and have been in enough relationships to know what we want out of it to know when we're wasting time,” he said.

Stars gather to mourn John Hughes

REMEMBERING A GREAT Actors Vince Vaughn, Matthew Broderick and Ben Stein were among the family and friends who attended a private funeral Tuesday in a Chicago suburb for the late director John Hughes, us-magazine.com reports.

Stein, who famously played Ferris Bueller's teacher in the '80s classic comedy, was one of the speakers at the service. He said it was “very touching” and that there was “a lot of crying.”

“We'll never see his like again,” Stein told reporters after the service. “He was the Wordsworth of the suburban America post-war generation. He was a great, great, great genius and as much of a friend and a great family man as he was a poet.”

After the service, mourners gathered in a procession to a Lake Forest cemetery, where Hughes was to be laid to rest.

Hughes, known for such teen classics as Sixteen Candles and The Breakfast Club, died of a heart attack Aug. 6. He was 59.

Molly Ringwald, who became a star after appearing in Sixteen Candles in 1984, said she “was stunned and incredibly sad to hear about the death of John Hughes.”

“He will be missed — by me and by everyone that he has touched,” she added in a statement shortly after his death. “My heart and all my thoughts are with his family now.”

For sale: One baby

THE SURREAL While Joel Madden eagerly awaits the birth of his second child with Nicole Richie, some people obviously think he could do with a third.

The Good Charlotte frontman recounted on Twitter about being offered a baby while stopped at a red light in his car. “Today some people in traffic tried to sell me a baby. A live human baby. I didn't know what to say,” he wrote. “It all happened so fast. I was trying to figure out if they were serious, and I think when my reaction was not a good one. They just took off.”

Sienna finally lands single man

ON THE RIGHT TRACK Sienna Miller has reportedly found a new man, a DJ named George Barker, according to the Mirror.

The pair attended a private party last week and are said to be planning a vacation together.

“Sienna and George is still a pretty casual, low-rent thing but they're both really happy,” a source told the newspaper.

“He's also single, which is a massive coup.”

All my success could go: Ashton

KEEPING IT REAL Ashton Kutcher has enjoyed tremendous success, but he's still worried he could lose it all at any moment.

“You never know what happens in this business. What we do for a living is nonsense. It's entertainment,” the actor tells the New York Post. “I still haven't bought myself anything special with my earnings. I can't even think what I've treated myself to. Actually, I haven't spent anything. I've kept it all.”

Paris and Doug kiss and make up

IT'S BACK ON Doug Reinhardt knows just what to do to get back in Paris Hilton's good graces: Rent a private island in Fiji.

“Love Wadigi Island, had the most incredible stay,” Hilton posted on Twitter after returning from a visit with Reinhardt. “It is true paradise, so beautiful and private. It's the perfect place to vacation.”

And friends say Reinhardt's attempt to rekindle things with his ex is working great. “She loves being treated like a princess so she can feel how deeply in love he is with her, and she's having a blast,” a source told the Sun.

Kate and A-Rod ready to have baby?

RUSHING THINGS? Kate Hudson is reportedly so happy with Alex Rodriguez that she even wants to have a child with the Yankees slugger. Hudson already has a five-year-old son, Ryder, from her marriage to Black Crowes frontman Chris Robinson.

“Kate just turned 30 and she's ready to have her second child,” a source said, according to Hollyscoop. “She wants Ryder to have a sibling, so she brought up the idea to Alex and told him that they would make a beautiful baby together, and that she would assume all financial responsibility.”

More evidence of Brad and Renée

PLAIN TO SEE Renée Zellweger and Bradley Cooper aren't doing a good job of hiding their fling while on vacation.

Photographers caught the pair strolling through a hotel lobby in Barcelona. Cooper placed a hand on Zellweger's behind, the Daily Mail reports. She responded by placing a hand into his back pocket.

They were later spotted embracing while visiting a church.

Smoked Salmon, Mascarpone and Leek Pizza

Submitted by Jennifer Rigby, St. Catharines, Ont.

INGREDIENTS:

Fresh pizza dough (I buy mine at an Italian market, or make it yourself)
1 large leek, washed and green portions chopped
2 tbsp olive oil
175 g mascarpone cheese (use about 3/4 of container)
150 g package of frozen sliced wild smoked salmon, thawed
Salt and pepper

METHOD:

Using 1 tbsp oil, sauté leeks in frying pan until soft. Set aside. Roll out dough onto pizza pan. Using remaining oil, coat surface of dough.
Cover dough with sautéed leeks. Then place smoked salmon on top of leeks. I like to slightly overlap the triangular pieces of salmon so it looks like a pinwheel. In the areas not covered by the salmon, us-
